

Brittany Cerroni, VMD, DACVS

Dr. Brittany Cerroni received her bachelor's degree in animal sciences from Cornell University and her veterinary medicine doctorate from the University of Pennsylvania. She then went on to complete a one-year rotating internship at Red Bank Veterinary Hospital and a one-year surgical internship at Dallas Veterinary Surgical Center. After her surgical internship, she completed a small animal surgical residency at the Animal Specialty Center in Yonkers, New York, and stayed on for a year of clinical practice. Dr. Cerroni became board certified in 2016. Dr. Cerroni performs both soft tissue and orthopedic surgery at GCVS. When she isn't performing surgeries at GCVS, Dr. Cerroni is a board member of the Harris County Veterinary Medical Association and volunteers at the Wildlife Center of Texas.
