

Nicola Wilson, DVM

Oncology

Dr. Nicola Wilson, originally from Canada, graduated from the Western College of Veterinary Medicine in Saskatchewan in 2006. After completing an internship at Oklahoma State University, she joined Gulf Coast Veterinary Specialists in 2010 for her residency in internal medicine. During her time at Gulf Coast, Dr. Wilson also pursued and completed a residency in oncology, significantly expanding her expertise in both fields.

Following her work at Gulf Coast, Dr. Wilson was awarded The Fred and Vola Palmer Fellowship, which enabled her to complete a second residency in veterinary oncology. Her medical interests include lymphoma, translational medicine, and the multi-modal approach to cancer therapy, aiming to enhance patient survival while minimizing side effects.

Outside of work, Dr. Wilson enjoys spending time outdoors with her husband Kevin and their two dogs, Annie and Trigger.
