

Rebecca Cervenec, DVM, DACVIM

Cardiology

Dr. Cervenec earned her bachelor's degree in animal sciences from The Ohio State University and attended graduate school at the University of Arizona. While at the University of Arizona, she studied muscle biology and obtained her master's degree in animal sciences. She earned a degree in veterinary medicine from The Ohio State University and completed a residency in cardiology at the University of Minnesota in St. Paul, Minnesota. Prior to entering her residency, she completed a small animal medicine and surgery rotating internship at the University of Minnesota. She became board certified by the American College of Veterinary Internal Medicine "Specialty of Cardiology" in 2015.