

Haley LaMontagne

Haley earned her B.S. in Biology from Baylor University and started in veterinary medicine in 2019 as a Client Service Representative at a busy multi-doctor practice in Pittsburgh. What began as a chance job quickly turned into a career she loved. She became the Client Service Supervisor there before moving to Houston, where she joined GCVS in 2022 as the Emergency and Critical Care Client Support Supervisor. In April 2025, Haley stepped into the Emergency & Critical Care Clinical Support Manager position at GCVS.

Haley will be the first to tell you she didn't always plan to work in vet med but once she got started, she couldn't imagine doing anything else. She's especially passionate about emergency and critical care and enjoys being part of a team that helps pets and their people during some of their most stressful moments.

Outside of work, Haley is a self-proclaimed book nerd (she jokes she might've been an English major in another life). She and her husband share their home with a blue heeler mix named Asher, who has an emotional support pillow pet he carries everywhere he goes.
